

Toothbrushes Kiss

Timothy Collinson
Faculty Librarian for Technology

July-August 2008

A display of haiku by Timothy Collinson, examples of haiku books and magazines from the small to the esoteric, as well as Timothy's own field notebook and other ephemera.

Winter
frigid morning.
toothbrushes kiss
beneath the mirror

The display includes notes explaining the verse form and its variants, together with some examples from haikai. Timothy looks up to – Basho (16th century Japan) and Alison Williams (21st century England).

See also:

www.haikusoc.ndo.co.uk

<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Haiku>